

Figure 1-8 Diaphanocephalus galeatus (Rudolphi, 1819) parasite of Salvator merianae (Duméril and Bibron, 1839) of Southern Brazil. 1 - Oral capsule; 2 - arrows point the three pillars supporting both oral valves; 3 - arrow indicates the egg, vulvar lip of the female; 4 - ovejector of the female; 5 - male with closed copulator bag and apparent lateral rays; 6 - genital cone male; 7 - arrows point gubernaculum, larger and smaller male spicule spicules; 8 - posterior region of male and female in copulation.